After going through the preliminary exercises, it was found that there were present twenty-six gentlemen who were ready to be organized as a Division, and they were accordingly constituted as such.

The Middleport Division is largely composed of the prominent, active business men of the town, and already inspires great hopes hundred individuals, besides the ladies, most hundred individuals, besares the individuals, besares the individuals, besares the individuals, besares the individuals, but stage of action. No more important class could be gathered in the organization, but still it has long been felt that the Division claimed and lough tablespoons and lough tablespoons and greatly needed the notive assistance of the business men of Pomeroy. It needs something more than their good wishes. It needs their combined influence and exertions for the cause. Accordingly an effort has been started to secure the connection of the business-men with the Division, and already over thirty names have been secured. The number will doubtless be largely increased, and it is exceedingly destable to secure the co-opera-tion of all the basiness men of Pomeroy who are temperance men at heart and desire to see the good cause prevail.

Gentlemen, let the worthy example of Midhas a question. Let it then share the efforts and co-operation of those who are most directly interested in the good morals and vir tuous character of the town. C. M., W. P.

Examine and Purchase.

Johnson's New Illustrated Family Atlas is unquestionably the best and cheapest work of the kind ever published, and we feel warranted in saying that every reading man or family will give it proference to any wall or mount ed map or other Atlas now offered to the pubon a scale too small for minute reference; but in this work you have one hundred and three pages of the finest, plainest and mest state plainty, and address all orders to three pages of the finest, plainest and mest contrate steel plate mans, representing every country, state, county, townships, &c., &c., in the world, besides a vast amount of the choicest reading matter, embracing among other subjects a complete "Biographical Index," a treatise on Phisical and Descriptive Geography: Chronological History of the Rebellion. Indeed Johnson's Atlas has no rival either in Indeed Johnson's Atlas has no rival either in point of excellency or reasonableness of price. The work has met with good success in this place, and we trust the reading people of the county will wait until Mr. G. W. Crandellento examine this Atlas, before investing other wise. This Atlas is so constructed as to receive all future improvements, and change in this or the Old World.
